

Biography:

Ana Sofia Catarino, Project Officer, European Maritime Safety Agency (EMSA)

Ana Sofia Catarino is a Project Officer at the European Maritime Safety Agency (EMSA) in Lisbon. She has joined the EMSA's Pollution Preparedness and Response Unit in March 2010 and she has been working in the field of pollution response to chemical spills at sea.

She has a degree in Chemistry from University of Aveiro, Portugal. Before joining EMSA she worked at the Institute for Prospective Technological Studies of the European Commission's Joint Research Centre on industrial pollution, waste and recycling themes

